ABOUT ME

I am Elene Patarkalishvili, a fourth-year student enrolled at Caucasus University. At the moment, I am actively involved with two well-known companies, Toyota and Red Bull. My professional background includes a wide range of job experiences that coincide with my personal interests, such as making new contacts, networking, taking on challenges beyond my usual comfort zone, and gaining valuable exposure to a multitude of fields.

Travel, despite its clichéd nature, is a genuine passion of mine, which I had the opportunity to indulge in during a one-semester exchange program. As an open and extroverted individual, my curiosity spans across numerous areas, making it challenging to pinpoint a single concrete hobby.

I have a genuine enthusiasm for being active and relish having a busy schedule. With a strong drive and abundant energy, I am always eager to pursue various new opportunities, continuously seeking challenges for personal and professional growth.
