

Irakli Tsereteli

was born on October 26, 1961, in Tbilisi. He obtained his higher education in philology from the Sulkhani-Saba Orbeliani Institute.

In 1983-1987 he was a political prisoner and served his sentence in Vologda, Arkhangelsk and Vorkuta governorates.

Irakli Tsereteli was one of the prominent leaders of the national independence movement and the initiator of the NATO idea. Since 1988, he has been the founder and chairman of the "The National Independence Party of Georgia".

In 1992-1995, Irakli Tsereteli served as a member of the Parliament of Georgia.

Irakli Tsereteli is the founder of the Atlantic movement, a creator, publicist, and author of numerous fiction books and scientific works, totaling 42 publications.