ABOUT ME:

I am Keso Beridze, a student in the Integrated Bachelor's-Master's Program for Primary Education Teachers (Grades I-VI) at the School of Education, Caucasus University. I approach my future profession and the development of the education sector with great responsibility and enthusiasm..

My journey toward a successful career began here at Caucasus University with high hopes and ambitious goals, and now continues with tangible achievements. I believe that Caucasus University is not merely an educational institution, but rather a center for innovative ideas and the creation of a better future.

As a future educator, I remain open to contemporary challenges, value traditional approaches, and am simultaneously motivated to contribute to building a better future.

Based on my academic achievements and leadership capabilities, I hope to serve as an ambassador who will worthily represent the School of Education and Caucasus University—an institution that cultivates leaders, not followers.
