ABOUT ME:

In 2023, I enrolled in the English-language Psychology program at Caucasus University, where I am currently a third-year student. Alongside my studies, since September 2024, I have been working as a librarian at European University, actively assisting students in finding and accessing learning resources. At the beginning of 2025, I volunteered for four months at Caritas Georgia, where I taught English to elementary school children.

I am actively engaged in student activities: I have participated in student scientific conferences (2024, 2025), as well as regional and international youth programs. In September 2025, I will take part in an Erasmus+ exchange project in Armenia.

In 2025, a research project conducted together with my colleague won first place at the Alte University: Innovation, Society & Future conference, and I was appointed Caucasus University Ambassador for the 2025–26 academic year.

My interests include child development, clinical, educational, and legal psychology, as well as academic research.
