ABOUT ME:

I'm an architecture student. I transitioned from medicine after realizing my passion lies in creativity and design. I'm especially drawn to how spaces can influence emotions and behavior, and I aim to create meaningful, thoughtful designs. Outside of university, I love traveling and discovering new places, whether it's a quiet city street or a chaotic night out. I enjoy partying with friends, especially after long weeks of studying, it's my way of recharging and living in the moment. These experiences, both calm and chaotic, inspire my work and help me stay balanced. I'm also interested in fitness and skincare, and I enjoy staying organized and setting personal goals.
