ABOUT ME:

Hello, my name is Tiko Qasradze. I graduated from Buckswood international school. I'm currently studying PR and communication at Caucasus university.

I am glad that i was given the chance to become a third-year ambassador at Caucasus university. This is a great responsibility and, at the same time, an opportunity to contribute to improving student life.

Since childhood, i have been really interested in theatre. For seven years i attended drama school. This experience has become the most important part of my life. Theatre thought me how to express myself and my opinions and how to work in a team. Thanks to theatre, i can freely communicate with any audience and take on many responsibilities .

When choosing university , i tried to choose a field that would be as close as possible to my interests. Media and public relations are the areas that excite me the most. That is why i believe, this is the path where i both see my development and future.
