

Gega Salukvadze

Babeş-Bolyai University, Romania

During the week of June 2-6, Gega Salukvadze, Lecturer and Assistant Professor of the School of Media of Caucasus University, participated in the Erasmus+ mobility within the framework of the academic staff mobility program at Babes-Bolayi University, Romania.

During the visit, the participant gave lectures to students of the School of Communication. Meetings were also held with the Dean of the School of Arts and the Head of the Media Arts Program, where issues of future cooperation were discussed. One of the important results of the visit was a meeting with a representative of the School of European Studies, as a result of which scientific cooperation in the direction of digital communications is planned for the future, with a special emphasis on joint research on manipulation topics.

It is worth noting that this type of international exchange program contributes to the deepening of academic cooperation, the adoption of new methods and the expansion of international relations.