

About the project

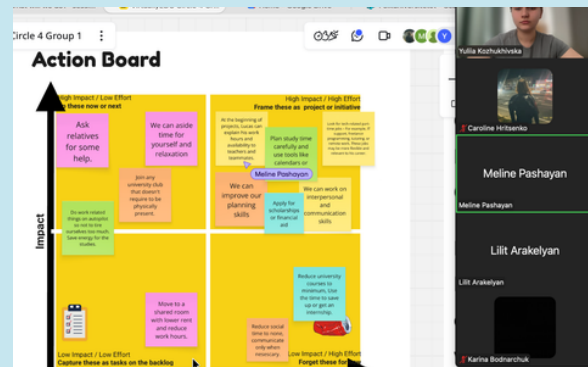

VIRTUALLYEDU brings together students, educators, and young people from Europe and the Eastern Neighbourhood through innovative virtual exchanges and collaborative learning activities.

The project aims to strengthen digital skills, promote intercultural dialogue, and enhance employability through meaningful online international experiences.

Through workshops, discussions, teamwork, and networking activities, participants gain practical competences for education, employment, and active citizenship in a digital world.

What will you do?

- 👉 Participate in engaging discussions with international peers and experts.
- 💡 Work in multicultural teams to solve challenges and share ideas.
- 💻 Learn practical tools and approaches for online communication and collaboration.
- 🌟 Connect with participants from different countries and backgrounds.

What our participants think?

This project not only taught me plenty of new & useful things, but also gave me the opportunity to implement and create my own project!

It helped me grow, think more creatively, and collaborate with others to bring ideas to life. I gained valuable skills, confidence, and inspiration that I will carry forward.

"The hackathon was an incredibly valuable experience that fostered innovation and collaboration. I can't wait to take apply the skills I gained in the real world!"
