Bachelor's Program in Business Administration

Caucasus Business School

Mendel University, The Czech Republic

The opportunity to study abroad is essential for both personal and professional development, and Erasmus+ gave me that chance. Although the initial stage brought many problems, difficulties related to a foreign country and an unfamiliar environment - thanks to this program I experienced the student life from a previously unimaginable and positively different angle.

I spent the spring semester of 2026 at one of the Czech Republic's leading universities, Mendel University, in the city of Brno. Throughout the semester, I was able to grow close to Czech culture, adapt to the local rhythm of life, and meet many people not only from the Czech Republic but from various parts of the world. This one semester spent in Brno had an enormous influence on me, and I was able to take yet another step towards independent living and better self-understanding.

Given that Brno is one of the Czech Republic's most important economic and innovation centers, Mendel University created a learning environment that combined with the local conditions, supported my professional development.

Beyond my studies, this program also allowed me to introduce Georgian culture and values to students who had come from various countries. I also had the chance to learn more about other countries through conversations with locals and through traveling. One might think that a single semester is too short of a time for fundamental personal changes, but even in such a brief period, it is possible to form a different worldview.

So the hesitation, difficulties, and uncertainty that come with participating in this program grew into an experience that left a lasting mark on my life. I would therefore advise everyone to overcome their fears and step out of their comfort zone, in order to gain the kind of unforgettable experience that this program offers.
