English Language Bachelor's Degree Program in Architecture

Caucasus School of Architecture and Design

RISEBA University of Applied Sciences, Latvia

The experience gained from the Erasmus+ program has become one of my best memories: new friends, testing myself in a foreign environment, independently managing unusual situations, changing my worldview, and getting to know myself from a completely different perspective. This experience is important not only for professional advancement, but also for personal growth. I met people who remain crucial members of both my daily life and professional environment today.

Participating in this program does not mean only the period of going abroad. Newly formed relationships and professional knowledge leave a profound mark on students' lives, as perspective, scale, and consequently the evaluation of one's own capabilities change.

Through such challenges, I believe you move at least one step closer to the goals that are the foundation of success for many people, though an exchange semester turns this path into an enjoyable process and gifts us with unforgettable life memories.
