Bachelor's Educational Program in Architecture (Georgian-taught)

Caucasus School of Architecture and Design

Warsaw University of Technology and Art in Applied Sciences, Poland

The Erasmus+ exchange program allowed me to deepen my knowledge and experience not only academically, but also personally. I spent the Spring Semester of 2026 at the Warsaw University of Technology and Art, where I met inspiring people from all over the world. This experience helped me discover diverse cultures, proudly share Georgia's history and traditions with my peer, and create unforgettable memories with new friends.

The exchange program completely transformed my perception of architectural education. Studying at a European university helped me learn to design spaces not only with aesthetics in mind, but also within the context of sustainability and European standards.

Living in a foreign country presented me with new challenges and responsibilities, which fostered my personal growth and helped me overcome language and cultural barriers. It also gave me the opportunity to explore cities not only in Poland, but across other European countries and experience their unique cultures.

I am glad that Caucasus University gave me the opportunity to seize this chance. I am deeply grateful to the International Relations Department and the staff of the School of Architecture and Design, who handled my countless questions and minor issues tirelessly and with great responsibility.

I encourage everyone to apply for the Erasmus+ exchange program and despite the time-consuming process, not miss out on this incredible opportunity.
