HTWK Leipzig University of Applied Sciences, Germany

The opportunity to study abroad has always been particularly exciting for me, but the experience I gained through the Erasmus+ program exceeded my expectations. With the support of Caucasus University, I spent one semester in Germany at Leipzig University of Applied Sciences (HTWK Leipzig), studying International Management.

Adapting to a new academic environment, interacting with students from different countries, and discovering different cultural values had a significant impact on me. The program also gave me the opportunity to travel to several European countries, which broadened my perspectives considerably. Living independently in a foreign country and facing everyday challenges helped me grow personally.

I became more confident, open-minded, and determined. This semester was not just an academic experience for me, it was an opportunity to better understand myself and a foundation for my continued pursuit of success.
