University of Vechta, Germany

From June 8 to 12, within the framework of the Erasmus+ Administrative Mobility Programme, Mariam Okruashvili, Dean of the Medicine School at Caucasus University, and Elene Davitashvili, Marketing Communications Manager, participated in academic, cultural, and educational activities at the University of Vechta, Germany.

As part of the programme, participants had the opportunity to become acquainted with the history of the city of Vechta, as well as its local culture and traditions.

Interactive discussions on various academic and administrative issues were also held, in which participants were actively engaged. During the International Week, representatives of Caucasus University took part in a number of planned administrative activities, further strengthening their international connections and fostering cooperation.

The purpose of the visit was to share experiences and academic practices between universities and to deepen institutional collaboration. Representatives of higher education institutions from different countries participated in the event. Participants introduced their universities and exchanged information on educational systems and institutional specifics, contributing to the enhancement of educational processes and strengthening cooperation among universities from various countries.
