

Natia Korkashvili

Middle East Technical University (METU), Türkiye

Within the framework of the Erasmus+ Staff Mobility Programme, Natia Korkashvili, a representative of the Quality Department of Caucasus University, visited Middle East Technical University (METU) in Türkiye.

The host university organized an International Week, attended by representatives of several universities from different countries. The week opened with presentations introducing the participating universities and continued with a series of scheduled working sessions.

As part of the visit, working meetings were held, where partner universities shared their experiences and discussed university-level challenges and possible ways to address them. A campus tour was also organized, providing participants with an opportunity to explore various research centers and the material and technical resources available at METU. University representatives highlighted the importance of this equipment in the learning process and spoke about the achievements students had attained using these resources.

The International Week also included visits to the city's notable landmarks. The informal meetings proved equally valuable, giving participants an opportunity to discuss new ideas and explore prospects for future cooperation.