

Nika Kobalia

Caucasus School of Business

University of Ljubljana, Slovenia

„From the moment I entered the Caucasus University, I aimed to participate in the exchange program. The university gave me the opportunity to fulfill my greatest desire. In the first semester of the 4th year, within the framework of the Erasmus + program, I went to Slovenia, namely to the University of Ljubljana, Faculty of Economics and International Business.

Going to a foreign country for a semester and being in a completely different environment, which is radically different from the environment you are familiar with, is very interesting. In addition to the unique opportunity to get acquainted with new methods of studying abroad, you also have the opportunity to learn about different cultures, travel, and enjoy the unique sights and attractions of another country. Living independently allows you to develop personal and professional skills that will surely help everyone in the future. In my opinion, the most important thing that an Erasmus+ participant gets is Networking. The opportunity to meet new people who share your worldview is very nice.

I recommend everyone not to miss this unique opportunity.”