

Ketevan Narindoshvili

Caucasus School of Humanities and Social Sciences

Middle East Technical University

„Participating in the Erasmus+ exchange program was one of the most memorable, diverse and interesting experiences of my life. I would like to thank Caucasus University for giving me the opportunity to spend one semester in Turkey, at the Middle East Technical University.

I think the main charm of participating in the exchange program is the interaction with people. During one semester, I met many students from different countries, learned more about their culture, traveled with them to different cities in Turkey, and the unforgettable emotions gained throughout these relationships are most valuable for me.

Going to different country completely alone comes with many difficulties, though these complications help you to become more independent and confident. Participating in to the exchange program required a lot of hard work, which will definitely be appreciated. I believe this opportunity should be used by students who want to have the most colorful, interesting and outstanding academic and life experiences.”