University of Valladolid, Spain

Caucasus Business School

„Living and studying in Valladolid is an incomparable experience. I think the knowledge gained there is not only the basis of career advancement, but also of personal development. It seemed difficult to live independently for 5 months at first, but the university has such an atmosphere that it becomes as easy as possible to adapt. In my opinion, participating in the Erasmus program is an experience that every promising and ambitious student should take at some point, because after the project you will actually return to your homeland more purposeful, hardworking, independent and energetic.”
