„On the day of my departure from Tbilisi, even before the plane took off, I felt that I was embarking on an adventure, and even today, every morning, I wake up with this feeling. I have already learned a lot from living alone in a foreign country and I am sure there will be many more challenges ahead. 5 months may not be a long time, but it is enough to find out a little more about yourself, to develop personally and return to your country filled with new ideas.”
