

Neli Papiashvili

National University of Political Studies and Public Administration, Romania

Caucasus School of Economics

„From my school years, I was self-aware that I wanted to receive education abroad. With the help of Caucasus University and Erasmus+ program, I have traveled to Bucharest for 2019 fall semester. Bucharest is quite interesting city; it is also referred as little Paris or eastern Paris for its elegant and modern architecture.

Romanians are very warm, considerate and energetic people and this factor has made it easier and interesting for me to leave in a foreign country. Leaving independently, traveling in countries and adapting myself with completely different culture and education system has always been kind of a challenge for me. I believe, Erasmus+ program has helped my personal growth and to find friends from different countries. Thanks to Caucasus University and Erasmus+ program for this opportunity.”