

Tinatin Bakradze

Budapest Metropolitan University, Hungary

Caucasus School of Media

„No one should miss the chance to live and study abroad. Foreign culture, new friends, lecturers and a different learning environment play a huge role in a person's personal and professional development. I was looking forward to the announcement of the Erasmus program from the first year and was very happy when I was accepted to the Metropolitan University of Budapest. This school is distinguished by the abundance of foreign students and is adapted to modern teaching methods. I already know that one semester spent here will be one of the best periods of my life.”