Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań, Poland

“On April 22-26, 2024, within the framework of Erasmus+ administrative mobility, I had the honor to give a lecture course on energy security issues at the Adam Mickiewicz State University (Poznan, Poland). During the visit, organized with the support of the political science and journalism faculty of the given university, meetings were held with both Polish and international students in Poland. During the lecture course, we also talked about the prospects of the strategic partnership between Poland and Georgia and contemporary political and economic challenges.

The meeting with the host - The head of the Department of Public Administration Studies, with whose active involvement a very interesting and diverse discussion was held with the students, turned out to be full of interesting impressions. During the visit, I was given the opportunity to get to know the university life closely in order to further transform the best practices and experiences.

Within the framework of the visit, the meeting of the faculty was especially memorable with the dean Professor Andrzej Stelmah and his colleagues - scientists and with the heads of youth affairs departments, Professor Machei Valkovski and Dr. Simon Osovskii, who were in love with Georgia. The host party once again emphasized the importance of sharing European values and further integration for Georgia. It should be noted that the dean of the faculty is planning an official visit to Georgia in June of this year and expressed hope for deepening cooperation with the Caucasus University in the future.”
