

Lana Akopovi

Caucasus School of Architecture and Design

„In 2022, I began my studies in the Bachelor of Architecture program at Caucasus University, which marked the beginning of unforgettable memories in my life. In the second semester of the first year, I learned that I could go to the University of Ecology and Management in Warsaw for the fall semester within the Erasmus+ program.

I was very happy when the application was confirmed, I started looking for information about Polish history and culture, I toured the campus. As soon as I arrived, I felt that I found myself in a warm and friendly environment, because to be honest, I had anticipations before leaving. I found Eastern Europe and its culture very close and interesting.

As for the half a year spent directly within the program, this great experience taught me to live independently and interact with people of different ethnicity, culture and language. Consequently, I experienced tremendous personal growth. During my studies, I learned new and different methods, which gave me the opportunity to develop vision, manual work and deepen my knowledge in architecture.

The Caucasus University made a special contribution to all of this, for which I am very grateful and also Warsaw University of Ecology and Management for all their support during this period.”