

Mariam Mskhaladze

Caucasus School of Media

Istanbul Bilgi University, Turkiye

„Studying abroad has been a goal of mine at every stage of my life, but I never thought I would start it all with Istanbul.

Istanbul is a great mix of culture and history. Every day in this city is an adventure that changes you and broadens your perspectives. Istanbul has a magical energy, which is why it becomes your city from the very first moment.

Bilgi University, with its atmosphere, helps you create a healthy comfort zone as much as possible. Modern teaching methods are completely tailored to the student and help you in personal and career growth. In Istanbul, I tried myself in completely different fields, the exchange program allows you to grow yourself creatively in many ways with new, different experiences.

For me, as a Georgian, it was especially important to establish social, cultural and political discussions and exchange with foreign friends and peers. Given the many challenges our country is facing today, it was very difficult to distance ourselves from it, however, with a slight increase in awareness of these issues in the society outside the country, the situation would have been a little easier. This is exactly what an exchange program is all about, you are never ready for the differences and similarities between countries, the support you receive from strangers, and the unforgettable emotions you experience in a completely different environment.”