

Mariam Sanikidze

Caucasus School of Humanities and Social Sciences

Vilnius University, Lithuania

„When I reflect on the past five months of my life, I immediately feel a deep sense of gratitude. I quickly fell in love with Vilnius, as it is a calm, organized, beautiful and mysterious city. Many exciting memories are tied to it, and they will stay with me for a lifetime.

The search for new experiences and the pursuit of insights have always been part of my nature. I constantly seek challenges and opportunities for growth, which led me to participate in an exchange program at Vilnius University during the autumn semester of 2024.

The academic environment was exceptional, characterized by professionalism and high-quality education. Student life at VU was diverse, offering numerous opportunities for personal and professional development.

In my opinion, the most magical part about studying abroad is that it creates and fosters an ideal environment for personal development. Independence, a sense of inner freedom, and the ability to step back and view yourself from a third perspective are key components of the exchange experience.

Beyond gaining insights into myself and acquiring valuable skills, I also met many incredible people, had a great deal of fun, and formed lasting friendships.

I am incredibly happy that Caucasus University gave me the possibility to expand my horizons and have an experience which left a profound impact in my life.”