

Saba Gvartadze

Caucasus School of Law

Saarland University, Germany

„The fall semester of the 2024-2025 academic year was special and unforgettable for me, as I had the opportunity to study and live in Germany, at the University of Saarland, within the framework of the Erasmus+ program. This period was important not only in terms of acquiring academic knowledge, but also in terms of accumulating life experience.

Studying at Saarland University opened up new perspectives for me in my field. I had the opportunity to listen to the lectures of world-renowned professors and researchers, which was an extraordinary opportunity to gain modern scientific approaches and practical knowledge. The high academic level of the lectures and seminars helped me to grow professionally and deepen my research skills.

In addition to the academic experience, the Erasmus+ program helped me meet students from different countries around the world. Intercultural interactions were particularly valuable to me, as they allowed me to better understand the traditions, beliefs, and lifestyles of other countries. Working on joint projects and participating in team activities significantly strengthened my communication and collaboration skills.

The Erasmus+ program has shown me the value of studying abroad and making new contacts. I am sure that this experience will play an important role in my career development.

Thanks to Caucasus University School of Law for this opportunity!”