Ludwigshafen University of Business and Society, Germany

„Through the Erasmus+ program, the semester I spent at the University of Business and Society in Ludwigshafen became a turning point that reshaped my life in a new direction. Studying in Germany gave me the opportunity to see myself in a completely different environment, to overcome the challenges of living alone abroad, and to discover the strength that continues to give me confidence to this day.

Each day felt like a new discovery, I was exploring my own abilities, getting to know people, and immersing myself in diverse cultures. The greatest treasure this journey gave me was the friends I made from all around the world. Every day spent with them was filled with positivity, genuine conversations, and unforgettable memories that will stay with me forever. They taught me what true support means, what real friendship looks like, and how beautiful cultural diversity can be.

From an academic perspective, the university opened new horizons for me. I would particularly highlight the study of SAP and ERP systems, a field that is highly in demand today and has become a solid foundation for my future career prospects. Practical assignments and group work allowed me not only to learn theoretically, but also to tackle real business situations. It was there that I strengthened my analytical thinking and decision-making skills. The professors stood out not only for their professionalism but also for their approachable attitude, which made the learning process deeper and more engaging.

The time I spent in Ludwigshafen turned out to be the best experience of my life, both academically and personally. Today, I am certain that participating in the Erasmus+ program was the step that laid a strong foundation for my future career, while also gifting me with unforgettable memories, happiness, and a new perspective on life.”
